

Six Camino Instructors Honored by Scientists

Six instructors at El Camino College have been selected by the National Science Foundation for summer work at institutes and conferences.

William Mooney, assistant director in physics and chemistry, will attend a conference of chemistry instructors at Montana State College, Bozeman, at the invitation of the NSF.

Mooney, the only junior college member of the conference, said that objectives of the meeting will be to design a course, including experiments and demonstrations, that will give the non-science majors a better understanding of natural phenomena.

The conference will be held from July 17 to 23 and will be attended not only by chemists but by professors in the humanities who will seek coordination between the non-science chemistry program and their specific fields.

John Dulin, chemistry instructor, will attend a summer conference at Tufts College, Medford, Mass., on the subject "Recent Developments in Chemical Bonding." Dulin is one of 30 instructors, from applicants throughout the United States, who was selected for the conference.

Warren Ford, also a chemistry instructor, will do institute work at Oregon State College from July 27 to Aug. 5 under the sponsorship of NSC.

Institute objectives have been listed as improving the subject matter competency of chemistry instructors and strengthening their capacity to motivate students in the field of chemistry by bringing the instructor into closer contact with prominent scientists.

Miss Joan Baldwin, instructor in geology and physics, will attend a National Science Institute co-sponsored by the University of Indiana and held in Cardwell, Mont.

Title of the institute is "Field Geology in the Northern Rocky Mountains."

For the second consecutive summer, Sidney Bingham, and the high school physics programs in their respective areas.

All the comforts of home while away from home are yours, when you vacation in a Go-About Camper. Just look at these advantages! Large windows allow an abundance of light and fresh air. Spacious areas for cooking, food storage, sleeping and closets are constructed in each camper. A porcelain sink, water tank, Butane stove and ice box are also included in each.
